Christmas Joy at Operation: Toy Box

Christmas Eve morning was a perfect day to celebrate the joy of giving in Hale'iwa. The 24th Annual Operation: Toy Box and Christmas Eve morning breakfast was held on December 24, 2015 at Hale'iwa Beach Park. The Christmas spirit was present as the volunteers gathered early in the morning to set up and decorate. Under sunny skies the guests were treated to a delicious breakfast prepared by The Proud Peacock Restaurant Chef Andy Dalan and Sous Chef Bill Leong along with Camp Erdman's Chef Marcos Dupreyirada and Pete Cacias. Santa was jolly as more than 180 keiki and teens received goodies and a bag of Christmas presents. See mahalo list on page 12.

An Exciting New Year for the North Shore Outdoor Circle

On September 28th, the annual membership meeting was held at the Sunset Beach Rec Center where outgoing President, Carolyn Sandison and The Outdoor Circle President, Mike McFarlane installed a new NSOC board of directors for 2016.

President - Kerry Germain
 1st Vice President - Rex Dubiel Shanahan
 2nd Vice President - Kathy Whitmore
 Treasurer - Yvonne Alexander
 Recording Secretary - Ruth Holmberg
 Corresponding Secretary - Ed Shanahan
 Membership Chair - Peggy Cutting
 Publicity/Newsletter - Vera Stone
 Beautification Chair - Dawn Peerson
 Weed Circle Chair - Jeff Dorr
 Sign Chair - Carolyn Sandison

At that same meeting NSOC member Bill Quinlan brought the proposed project, The Shops at Loko Ea, to our attention. Because it falls into part of the NSOC mission statement of protecting open spaces, view planes, and environment preservation, we contacted the landowners to oppose the project and offer help along with other community groups, individuals, and government leaders to work for an alternative plan. We hope Loko Ea Pond, its history, and importance to the community, can be preserved for generations to come.

Our keynote speaker that evening was the vivacious Shirley Head, who taught us all about Anthuriums. Her position as one of the founders of the Hawaiian Anthurium Society made her a prize source for information about this beautiful tropical plant.

On October 28th, the NSOC board met at Waimea Valley to discuss and vote on changes to how our meetings would be run. We unanimously voted to open up the meetings to all members and non-members. We set a very busy calendar for 2016 with fundraisers, events, workshops and general meetings. In fact, our first Micro-Fundraiser is already up and running. Consider purchasing a reusable shopping tote from us and help us keep the North Shore - clean, green, and beautiful.

Please contact Vera Stone at verastone60@gmail.com to find out more about the bags. We welcome members, past members, and non-members to come to a meeting. The first one of the year will be held January 12th at 3:30pm on the lanai of the Proud Peacock in Waimea Valley. The group meets every other month.

Find more information about meetings, events, and our mission on our Facebook page, North Shore Outdoor Circle, and on The Outdoor Circle's website, www.outdoorcircle.org.

We'd like to wish a Happy New Year to the community we care so much about.

Council Chair
Ernie Martin
Serving You in District 2

During the holiday season, it is customary for many of us to reflect on the year that was. As I look back on the various issues we addressed as a community, I am pleased to report that successful solutions were found for many of them. Most importantly, we stuck together as a community in the face of possible adversity, such as the series of potentially threatening weather conditions during this past hurricane season. But one item in particular really stands out in my mind as the greatest gift of the year. It was our ability to forever protect and preserve 660 contiguous acres of shoreline and oceanfront land at Kawela Bay and Kahuku.

This was a complex and difficult partnership among the State, City, the U.S. Army, the owners of the Turtle Bay Resort, the Trust for Public Land, and the entire North Shore community. This pristine area will no longer be threatened by development and will remain there for the enjoyment of the present and all future generations. This conservation easement was recently recorded on the books at the State Bureau of Conveyances, essentially closing the deal and allowing the various parties to proceed as agreed to. Even if Turtle Bay Resorts is acquired by another entity, this conservation easement remains in place.

I am especially grateful to my colleagues on the Honolulu City Council, who saw the wisdom in investing in this partnership and quickly approved a $5 million appropriation as the City's share of the $45 million price tag. Furthermore, the City will take the lead in creating a low-impact recreation area that will provide access to the public. Credit for closing the deal is also due to Drew Stotesbury, chief executive of Turtle Bay resorts who said in an October newspaper interview, "I think it's a fair deal for everybody ... I can assure you, the $45 million is less than the fair market value of what we're giving up ... That's the essence of a good deal — it's one where each party feels a little uneasy about it."

From my standpoint, it really emerged as a win-win solution. Turtle Bay Resorts can now proceed with master planning its remaining acreage there. The smaller developable footprint also means that there will be less density in its development plans. The State and City are now able to manage the protected areas in conjunction with the nonprofit Trust for Public Lands and federal authorities with jurisdiction over wildlife protection. The community need no longer worry that it will be denied access or that the land will be graded over for construction.

We have much to be thankful for and this is a tremendous gift for us all. Wishing you all the merriest of holidays and a happy and prosperous 2016.

Hello Friends of the North Shore

I am seeking individuals who wish to actively pursue an effective 'Weed Abatement' process for our community. For me, Weed Abatement, means keeping one's property in such a condition that negative nuisances do not occur that harm the surrounding community: Fire hazards, homeless hiding, allergy contaminants and vector (rats and mice) control.

If there exists an effective Weed Abatement program for our community, I do not see it being enforced. It is my belief, large wealthy landowners, agricultural and conservation lots adjacent to residential areas are allowed to present harmful situations to the community without penalty or recourse. For example, the Bonsall property in Waialua, 15 acres, has had numerous fires over the past 13 years and there is no financial penalty. Fire department personnel are at risk for each and every fire response. The Bonsall property has regularly been host to various homeless individuals and much larger groups of homeless. This type of situation exists in other places in Waialua, Haleiwa and other communities in Oahu. It is my opinion that there are property managers of large wealthy landowners that are challenged in their duties as to how to respond to these difficult situations of fire management and homeless / homeless encroachment. Some vacant unused agricultural properties, have no effective property management.

I am looking for a small, dedicated group that wants to positively change this situation through active contact with our local community leaders. If you have an interest in participating, please contact me by responding to this inquiry and I will begin the process.

This is not a complex or complicated process. There already exist governmental agencies that can do this job. These agencies need appropriate guidelines to follow and an enforcement mechanism that is quick, responsive and economically meaningful to the property owner.

Your active comments and suggestions are appreciated. Your suggestions for individuals or groups to be involved are welcomed.

Elephants in the Room

An “elephant in the room,” of course, is a subject that everyone is aware of but which is never discussed. There are several in Hawaii.

One is homelessness. Honolulu now ranks first in per capita homelessness among “small cities,” with a homeless population of more than 5,000. That’s not the elephant. Everyone knows those facts. The “elephant” is that Hawaii is beautiful and warm, with a friendly aloha spirit. Everyone in the world would like to live here. That includes the homeless. So it’s small wonder that folks with no job prospects, no relatives, no place to stay, buy one-way tickets to paradise. One result of well-meaning efforts to provide housing and support for our homeless population is that it just draws more homeless from the mainland.

So ... what to do? One solution may be to prioritize aid to the homeless. First in line: residents who have lived here more than five years (Ten? Fifteen? All their lives?). Also first in line: families, mothers with children. Also first in line: kupuna. Last in line: young single males ... MacDonald’s is hiring.

Next elephant: our rail system. We already know that it’s behind schedule, over cost, et. al. The elephant ... what we don’t discuss ... is that it’s too short. The rail system should stretch from Waianae to Hawaii Kai. Students should be able to get to UH. Airline passengers should step from the airport to a Waikiki hotel. The Bus should connect lots of other dots.

This will (gasp) cost money ... and (choke) political capital. And (oh, no!) take time. But we are a modern, first-class community. We should have a modern, first-class public transit system. Like New York, like San Francisco, like London, like Paris. Many mainland rail systems (e.g., BART, D.C.’s Metro) added large sections of rail after the initial lay-down. But our politicians must tread carefully: they may agree on a robust rail system, but the price of expansion is a hard sell.

Next elephant: bed-and-breakfast rentals. (Where do we get these names? Do any rental owners actually serve breakfast?) Every neighborhood has some ... illegal short-term vacation rooms or houses for rent at varying degrees of irritation to neighbors. Isn’t it time to recognize these elephants, legalize them, regulate them, and tax their income? City and state are losing millions in tax money that, among other things, could fund the agencies that regulate and monitor the program.

Three elephants in the room. Let’s admit that they’re there. Let’s get started on the hard political and fiscal decisions necessary to fix ‘em.

Kuamo'o Olelo by Malia K. Evans

Kaiaka Bay Beach Park...a place of importance in Polynesian voyaging history

The Pacific Ocean was a maritime highway for ancestral Polynesians, who utilized the heavens as a map to explore, colonize, and settle islands spread across the vast, expansive ocean. Within this oceanic environment, Polynesians developed navigational and voyaging technologies based on keen observation and intimate knowledge of their ocean and island worlds.

Polynesian navigators had detailed knowledge of stars and planets, winds, ocean swells, cloud formations, reflections, seamarks and the presence of terrestrial and marine animals to determine their position. European historical documents speak highly of Polynesian navigators abilities to hold their course by utilizing the instruments of nature. Hawaiian oral traditions eloquently recount multiple voyages between Hawai'i and southern Polynesia during the 10th-14th centuries. Throughout this time people, ideas and material goods flowed across the Pacific in a Polynesian long distance voyaging sphere.

Kapukapuakea at Kaiaka Bay Beach Park is highly significant within that voyaging history. The Marae Taputapuatea on Ra'iatea was the religious center of Eastern Polynesia and is currently a UNESCO World Heritage Site candidate. It was a political and religious learning center where elders, priests, voyagers and warriors met to perpetuate wisdom and knowledge of deep sea voyaging, navigation, ceremonial protocol, values and belief systems.

Stones from Taputapuatea were carried on canoe and became the foundation stones for new temples built across East Polynesia, including Oahu, Moloka i, Rapa Nui, Rarotonga, Tahiti, Mo'orea and Aotearoa. These marae (temples) were reduplicated across the Pacific as physical symbols of knowledge and power. Here at Kaiaka, a stone was transported 2,500 miles from Ra'iatea, and set as the cornerstone of a temple to maintain that genealogical continuity and connection to knowledge.

Hawaiian historian Kame'eleihiwa states that marae associated with Taputapuatea would have been constructed as simple rectangles with an east/west or north/south axis. The alignment of the temple walls would coincide with the winter solstice on one side and the summer solstice on the other. Solstices and equinox were the four times of the year when measurements of time were checked and corrected if needed. The astronomical alignments of temple walls are an important feature of some Polynesian marae/heiau. Hawaiian oral traditions recall the use of upright stones, notches and peaks on the distant horizon being employed for astronomical and navigational purposes.

Hawaiian oral traditions are abundant with connections to Kapukapuakea. Historian Alameda notes that Kapukapuakea was an "especially important heiau, because it was where the ruling chiefs of Oahu were vested to rule" (1994). Historian Kamakau recounts the ko'i honua (genealogical chant) of Kapawa; "the first chief to be set up as a ruling chief". Kapawa was the first to be born at Kukaniloko royal birthing site in upland Waialua (circa 1100 A.D.) Kapawa's a'a (amniotic membrane) was placed at Kapukapuakea in Pa'ala'a. Renowned Oahu chief Ma'ilikukahi (circa 1400 A.D.) was invested as ruler of Oahu at Kapukapuakea. His dynasty lasted for 400 years until conquest by Kamehameha I.

Archaeologists Kirch & Sahlins indicate "a royal temple of a distinctive kind" was located on the eastern side of Kaiaka Bay near the boundary between Pa'ala'a and Kamananui (1992). Archaeologist McAllister states Kapukapuakea was located in Paalaa-Kai, east end of Kaiaka Bay, makai of the railroad track (1933). Connections to Lonokaehu, a chief from Kahiki and his kupua dog Ku'ilio loa are part of the Kapukapuakea narrative of voyaging and migration.

Several associated features at Kaiaka hold significance for the Hawaiian community. The large limestone feature that dominates the landscape is called Pohaku Lana'i. Several oral traditions recount its origins. One account is it floated here from Kahiki. Another tradition states it flew from Kaua'i. When the sun came up, it landed at Kaiaka. Lawai'a (fishermen) utilized the pohaku as a lookout & bellstone in traditional times. As schools of fish were spotted, the pohaku would be hit with a wooden mallet and the resounding sound would call the community to kokua in catching fish. In 1822, English missionaries documented the stone as recently part of a marae. Pohaku Lana'i is on the State Register of Historic Places. Other important features on the landscape include a piko stone and a stone basin used for stargazing.

Kapukapuakea was an expansive complex and included the 'aina beneath Haleiwa Elementary. A large halau wa'a (canoe house) was built at the school over a decade ago to resurrect this rich voyaging history. As our community faces increased commercial & recreational development pressures on our open spaces, lets not jeopardize these unique cultural landscapes. As we journey forward as a community, lets seek ways to revitalize this rich history on the 'aina where our ancestors honed their skills and knowledge as some of the greatest navigators in the world.

Happy New Year

Country Talk Story with Choon James

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

We wish you a Happy 2016 filled with peace, prosperity, and contentment. Can't believe that 2015 is gone!

I would like to highlight a wonderful resource that is available to us as citizens - Olelo Community Television.

The good news is citizens can become more educated through the public media television programs. City Hall sessions are usually televised on Olelo Channel 54. State Capitol Legislative sessions are on Channel 49.

For example: We continually hear little bits of the Honolulu Rail controversies on the news media about the cost-overruns and mismanagement and so forth.

Last year, we were told that there was a $910 million shortfall already facing Honolulu's rail transit project. Then a few months later, we were told the projected shortfall increased to more than $1 billion. It would take about a year longer to complete.

Of course, many are not surprised with these cost overruns even though it was only approximately 10% of the 20-mile route. The rail project started in the vacant agricultural land in Ewa. It's a well-known fact that as the project nears the populated areas downtown, the building process will get more severe complications and inevitably more expensive.

Some compare the rail project to the H-3. The estimated cost of the 16-mile H-3 freeway in Hawaii was $50 million to $70 million in 1963. When completed in June, 1997, it cost approx. $1.23 billion, 17 times higher than the estimated cost.

Even then, there is a stark difference between the two projects. With H-3, the federal government bore 90% of the final project costs.

With the Honolulu Rail, the federal government pays a fixed $1.55 Billion. Oahu taxpayers are supposed to be responsible for the rest, whatever the balance may be!

Here is more info if you wish to dig deeper: These Rail meetings usually are very lonely, with hardly any public citizens in attendance.

Honolulu Authority for Rapid Transit (HART) meetings 1099 Alakea Street, Suite 150, Alii Place, Honolulu or Kapolei Hale | Conference Room B | 1000 Uluohia St., Kapolei

They are "Open to the Public". HART have been holding meetings since 2011 but it was not till late 2015 that the meetings are streamed LIVE at the time of the meeting. Citizens can now watch the meetings online, click Olelo Channel 55. For more information, please contact the project hotline at (808) 566-2299 or via email at info@HonoluluTransit.org

It's always educational to observe how the City Hall makes decisions that affect our lives and our children's. I strongly encourage us to take advantage of the resources available and especially to make our opinions and observations known to the decision-makers.

Stress and Your Health

It's a new year and you are probably thinking of your new year's resolutions. Why don't you focus on reducing stress in your life? Stress is part of our everyday lives. Healthy amounts of stress help you accomplish many things that need to be done. However, continued stress has a negative impact on your body.

Your brain is wired with an alarm system to protect you. When your brain thinks there is a threat to you, it signals your body to release a burst of hormones that causes an increase in blood pressure, pulse and respiratory rate to help you deal with the threat. The body's response to stress is usually over once the stressor has passed. However, when you have continued stress, this system is always turned on. The continued exposure to these stress hormones affects your body processes and your immune system. The symptoms of continued stress are poor sleep, fatigue, poor appetite or overeating, difficulty focusing and concentrating, and frequent bouts of illnesses such as colds. Eventually, the overexposure to these hormones puts you at risk for more serious health problems, such as heart disease, stroke, depression, digestive problems and weight gain.

Be proactive and begin to manage your stress before it leads to serious health problems. Sort out your priorities—do the most important things and eliminate the least important. You do not need to have an immaculate house. Share the house responsibilities with everyone in your family including your children. Be sure to eat regularly (don't forget to eat); get adequate sleep; get regular exercise; make time to have fun and laugh (people who laugh more live longer); and foster healthy relations with friends and extended family. Having a good support system helps reduce stress. Don't forget that professional counseling can help you gain new perspective and assist in problem solving.

Have a less stressful and happier 2016!

The Honolulu Charter Commission ("Commission") is soliciting input from North Shore residents on proposals to modify the Charter of the City and County of Honolulu. The Commission is holding public hearings to better understand and refine the 154 Charter amendment proposals that have been submitted for their review.

The Commission has until August 2016 to select proposed Charter amendments for placement on the ballot for the November 8, 2016 General Election.

The Commission forms every ten years to investigate local government operations and to explore and propose ways to improve it.

Voting for the Charter amendments in November 2016 is the only form of direct democracy for Oahu residents to decide policy initiatives directly through their own votes for the next ten years.

Currently North Shore residents interact with three levels of government: the US Federal Government, the State of Hawaii, and the City and County of Honolulu ("City"). These three levels of government provide different types of services to residents. However, the different layers of government do have common principles and values captured in their guiding documents.

At the Federal level the Declaration of Independence states that Governments derive "their just powers from the consent of the governed" and that it is the right of the people to alter their government "laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness." The Preamble to the Constitution of the United States asserts that the Constitution was established to (among other things) "establish justice," "promote the general Welfare," and secure the "Blessings of Liberty."

The Constitution of the State of Hawaii in turn declares in its preamble "We reaffirm our belief in a government of the people, by the people and for the people..." Moreover, Article I, Section 1 asserts "All political power of this State is inherent in the people and the responsibility for the exercise thereof rests with the people..."

In order to support government "by the people" the State of Hawaii established County governments. Each county in Hawaii (Honolulu, Kauai, Maui, and Hawaii island) has and exercises powers that are conferred by the Legislature of the State of Hawaii. Article VIII, Section 2 of the State Constitution establishes that each county "shall have the power to frame and adopt a charter for its own self-government..." The Hawaii Revised Statutes Section 46-1.5 further provides that "Each county shall have the power to frame and adopt a charter for its own self-government..."

A Charter for the City and County of Honolulu was first established in 1907 and now delivers our current system with coordinate branches of the Executive (Mayor) and the Legislative (City Council).

Section 2-101 of the City Charter provides that "The city shall have and may exercise all powers necessary for local self-government..." Section 2-102 states "All city powers shall be used to serve and advance the general welfare, health, happiness, safety and aspirations of its inhabitants, present and future, and to encourage their full participation in the process of governance."

Therefore, the City Charter defines the organization, powers, functions, and overall priorities of the City government.

Utilizing these powers, the City manages and oversees all municipal services for the people of Oahu including: emergency medical, fire, police, civil defense, sanitation/sewer, streets, water, and parks and recreation among others. For the 2016 Fiscal Year, the City's budgets to provide these services are $2.2 billion for Operating and $569 million for Capital Improvement Projects.

For the next several months North Shore residents have opportunities to directly influence their local government and their own quality of life by submitting input on the proposed Charter amendments.

Ten years ago the Commission sent twelve proposed amendments to voters in the 2006 General Election. Eight of the amendments were approved and four were rejected.

In 2006, the approved Charter amendments included prioritizing bikeways; mandating the curbside recycling program; allocating a percentage of annual property tax revenues to land conservation and affordable housing; and empowering the Ethics Commission to impose civil fines on elected officers for ethics violations.

North Shore residents might be interested in supporting these Proposals for 2016: Proposal 68 (City Clerk to Produce Voter Guides); Proposal 109 (Rent Stabilization); Proposal 110 (Additional, Smaller Municipal Governments); Proposal 116 (Improves Functioning of Clean Water and Natural Lands Fund); Proposal 137 (Honolulu Clean Election Fund); Proposal 138 (Prohibiting Pesticides in Parks); and Proposal 140 (Honolulu Independent Financial Review).

Other residents have asked the Commission to permanently defer Proposals 51 and 61 as these Proposals consider the creation of a "Honolulu Private Land Development Corporation (PLDC)" that will result in the commercial privatization of public lands and resources for private profit.

The direct link to the Charter Amendment Proposals being considered is available at <http://honoluluchartercommission.org/submitted-proposals>.

The organization Common Cause also has quality information on the Charter Commission at their website www.commoncause.org/states/hawaii/ and you can find the Charter Commission on Facebook as "Charter Commission, City and County of Honolulu."

Please consider sending the Honolulu Charter Commission your thoughts and testimony on proposals that interest you to cclcharter@honolulu.gov in preparation for their upcoming monthly meetings.

BANZAI NORTH SHORE WIRELESS

TWO of 34 ON SURF TOUR

Keanu Asing first started surfing on his sisters surfboard after he took the mermaid design off a board she won. The Fox sponsored surfer has since earned himself a well-deserved spot in the ring fighting with the top 34 surfers in the world. The West side Oahu native has the fire it takes to shake things up and proved that in his 2015 rookie year. He is one of two surfers that have qualified. Our own North Shore sweetheart hipster John John Florence has made it again. John John really doesn't have to be on tour and the WSL should probably pay him extra to go around the world with them. Florence is just crazy popular and recently won 5 awards at Surfer Poll. He was voted best surfer, best maneuver, best barrel, best movie and best performance. Kelly Slater was behind him, again, with Mick Fanning in third for the popular vote. On the mens side we had a few drops off the tour and we wish them the best on the QS in 2016. The first event is in Australia in March.

KELLY SLATER AGAIN CHANGING THE FACE OF SURFING

Kelly Slater and his team have been working on a wave machine for ten years and it finally was looking good enough to launch. Right after the Billabong Masters Slater announced his project on instagram claiming it is the best wave ever created. He might be right. KS Wave Company is the new adventure and the video online looks pretty insane. I did not time it but it claims a 14 second tube ride and is about 6-7 feet or about 3-4 feet Hawaiian. You have to crouch down a bit to get tubed but yes it looks pretty insane. It will be a game changer but I hope they warm the water up a bit! Congrats Kelly... we want to ride it, where is it? Reports have revealed it is east of Huntington about 110 miles but no official word out on that.

JEFF & KAI WIN!

Hawaii's World Champion bodyboarder Jeff Hubbard from Kauai was voted the best rider for the Shot Box Camera free surf championship. Hubbard is a three time World Champion and the event was an online contest. Another surfer, Maui's Kai Lenny, submitted a video for the Go Pro Challenge for a wave he filmed from his board at the Peahi Challenge. He was eliminated from the event in the Semi Final and then won $10,000 dollars for the video. Lenny is a great example of the cross fit athlete. His main sport is SUP but he surfs, kite surfs, wind surfs and more.

He has recently signed with Tag Heuer watches. Their motto "don't crack under pressure", a great march for sure. Congrats to our Hawaii athletes.

FLHI GIRLS SPORTS TV ON THE HUNT!

Get your start in entertainment! FLHI Girls Sport TV is looking for a trend & news reporter. The talent must know about surfing and sports and be funny but serious on camera. Get your start in entertainment! The test talent position will be compensated when a sponsor is procured for the segment. Sales experience is a must. Join the team! ### REMEMBERING ALEC COOKE PADDLE OUT

There will be a paddle out for Ace Cool at Waimea Bay on January 30th. Alec Cooke went missing while surfing at Waimea on October 27th and is still not found. The paddle out starts at 3pm and there will be a party afterwards, location to be announced. Check Facebook for details. <https://www.facebook.com/events/1160893117257582/>

North Shore's Kayla Ginella Wins Extreme Cowboy Racing World Championship

North Shore's own Kayla Ginella won her second World Championship Title this past October in Hamilton Texas.

Kayla has been riding at Kawailoa Ranch and coached by Tiare Watts since she was 8 yrs old.

Cece Buckley started the Hawaii Chapter of EXCA, ( Extreme Cowboy Association) 5 years ago. Riders compete locally at events that are held at Kawailoa Ranch, Dillingham Ranch, Kualoa Ranch, Gunstock Ranch and Circle C in Waimanalo. The Hawaii riders compete during the year for points to qualify for the World Championships held in Texas.

The Hawaii qualifiers for the Worlds included: Paris Starn who finished 9th in Intermediate division, Danae-Rose Moranral finishing 6th in Young Gun division, Piper Crabtree finishing 17th in Youth division, Hannah Button finishing 22nd in Youth Division

Extreme Cowboy Racing is one on the fastest growing equine sports in the world today. Over 220 competitors from all over the USA, Canada and Europe qualified to attend the World Championships held at Circle T. Arena in Hamilton Texas. The sport is a true test of overall horsemanship. Competitors race around the arena completing 14 obstacles. The riders are judged on over all horsemanship, technique, and speed. Kayla did the 14 obstacles for her World Championship Ride in 3 minutes and 45 seconds.

Kayla is now a Freshman at Colorado State studying Equine Science. She also made the CSU Polo Team which has one of the top programs in the Country.
