The final day of the HIC Pro had an exciting finish that saw a long overdue win for Kauai's Danny Fuller. This was the first win for him at Sunset in 15 years. Fuller, 32, was the only backsider in the all Hawaiian final and his precise attack on the tricky sometimes closing out Sunset battle ground earned him the victory and a spot in the prestigious Vans Triple Crown of Surfing. Fuller won $15,000.00 for his efforts and was very emotional at the awards. "My Mom has sacrificed so much for me along the way, so to dedicate this win to her means so much," Fuller said. Fuller has only surfed in the three events of the Vans Triple Crown once and was injured right before it. "I suffered a back injury. It's Hawaii. Dreams are made and broken." He said. This was an inspiring win, a win for him that proved that if he surfed his best he would do well.

North Shore Real Estate Trends

Richard D. Sterman
(R) of Sterman Realty

North Shore in an "UP" Market

The North Shore real estate market made a u-turn last year around mid-June and is now at least half way through a strong "UP" market.

If it follows most of our previous "UP" markets, we can expect a total of about 2 years of strength before the next real estate slow-down.

The latest Honolulu Board of Realtors monthly statistical report shows the North Shore "Median Sales Price" to be at $810,000, a 43% increase from the same time last year.

Interest rates remain at historic lows and the inventory of available homes and condos are at lows, therefore, in my opinion, we will see our prices continue to go up all the way through June of next year.

Honolulu's Newest Sister City

Chigasaki is a seaside resort community for the metropolitan Tokyo and Yokohama areas of Japan. Located on the Pacific coast on the main island of Honshu, Chigasaki is considered the birthplace of surfing in Japan. Chigasaki is also regarded as the center of Japanese Hawaiian culture with many tropical and Hawaiian stores. Tourism is an important component of its economy and Chigasaki has labored to build its reputation as the center of Hawaiian culture in Japan. For example, Chigasaki is home to the World Invitational Hula Festival, with the top dance group earning a trip to compete in Hawaii. The city boasts more than 100 hula dance groups with membership surpassing 1,000. There are more than 30 surfboard shops and a number of businesses manufacturing wetsuits for surfers. The members of the City Assembly wear aloha shirts during the hot summer months and names itself the "Aloha Assembly."

Late last year, Chigasaki officials expressed a strong interest in forming a Sister City relationship with Honolulu. In the ensuing months, I met with Vice Mayor Takehiko Kimura and his delegation and found their interest to be enthusiastic and sincere. It was obvious that the people of Chigasaki were prepared to invest in building a viable and sustainable relationship with Honolulu. In February of this year, the City Council passed a resolution to establish "Friendship" relations with the Chigasaki City Assembly of Kanagawa Prefecture. A precursor for the more formal Sister City relationship, passage of the resolution was intended to foster closer working relationships between Honolulu and Chigasaki officials over issues of mutual concern such as beach erosion, receding coastlines, beach maintenance and an aging population. The Chigasaki delegation traveled to Hawaii for more educational and goodwill exchanges and to explore opportunities to build economic relationships.

With the signing of a formal Sister City agreement on October 24 here on Oahu, Honolulu and Chigasaki City, Japan, culminated months of planning, exchanges and long-distance discussions. Chigasaki was perhaps the most enthusiastic candidate in the history of Honolulu's Sister Cities program and may serve as a model for future sister city relations. Much of that is embodied in the official Sister City Agreement signed October 24 between Mayor Kirk Caldwell and Chigasaki City Mayor Nobuaki Hattori. The Chigasaki City Assembly and the City Council commemorated the event with an exchange of official gifts. Knowing of the importance of surfing to the people of Chigasaki, I choose to present the delegation with a one-of-a-kind surfboard, designed especially for the event by Randy Rarick. Triple Crown executive Marty Thomas, who also helped to make it possible, was on hand to participate in the formal gift exchange.

Sadly, the momentous and celebratory event was marred by the tragic drowning death of Chigasaki Vice Mayor Takehiko Kimura in Waikiki on October 25. His immeasurable contribution to the establishment of the Sister City Relationship will be part of his legacy and fondly remembered by the people of Honolulu and Chigasaki.

State Representative
Richard Lee Fale
 Serving You in District 47

Aloha neighbors and friends,

It is with gratitude and humility that I write this last column to you as the representative of House District 47. On the evening of November 4, 2014, a new leader was elected to serve this wonderful community as your State Representative. Representative Feki Pouha is a local boy born and raised in Hauula, a husband and father, who will represent us with honor and integrity in the State Legislature. I couldn't think of anyone better equipped to serve us at this important time in our state. Congratulations and mahalo to Representative Pouha, we are looking forward to your service.

As I look back on my term as State Representative, I am proud of what we were able to accomplish together. First and foremost, we were a voice for rural communities across the state. We fought against measures what would raise the cost of living on hard working families, worked to preserve the unique character and culture of this community and supported community projects that would provide much needed jobs to people in our community. We took steps forward in bringing fast, short-term relief to traffic at Laniakea and we fought to protect and preserve families and family values. We replenished the state's Hurricane Relief Fund and Rainy Day Fund, prevented efforts to tax pensions and retirements and repealed the PLDC. I am proud of what we were able to do, but I also wish we could have done much more.

My love and appreciation for many of you and for this community itself will never end and I look forward to finding more opportunities to continue the great work we have started. Mahalo for this truly fulfilling opportunity to serve such a wonderful community. I look forward to seeing you on a beach or football game soon. Please feel free to contact me at repfale@gmail.com if you need anything g from me or if there's something we can work to accomplish together. A hui hou and mahalo again for this wonderful ride.

Time Marches On

As we move into the 2014 holiday season, I want to take this opportunity to let you know that I am devotedly looking forward to continuing to serve our community and state as your elected Representative of District 45. The last two years were very full and dynamic ones, and I expect that active pace to persist throughout the next two years.

Please join me in acknowledging the team of students and staff at Waialua High and Intermediate School for going above and beyond to present a first-rate Political Forum at the Waialua Community Association recently. It was inspiring to see our young scholars eagerly participating in bringing our open form of government to our community. The students, Megan Andrada, Lilia DeWilde, Brandon Lucas, Brianna Lucas, and Draven Ozoa, each accomplished their responsibilities with maturity and professionalism. The staff, Ms. Dannette Holdren and Principal Avis Nanbu, led the charge by being enthusiastic organizers and mentors to the students. To all, job well done!

At the Capitol, preparations are already underway for the opening of the 28th Legislative Session on Wednesday, January 21, 2015. My immediate focus now is on gathering information for Capital Improvement Projects (CIP) from our schools and our community, and researching legislation and bills I will introduce in January. Thank you to those who have already approached me with your feedback for 2015. I invite and encourage you to let me know what topics you'd like to see move through the legislative process. The research work must take place now because the time is very short between the opening of the session and the deadline for bills to be introduced in January.

The Hawaii State Legislature website (Capitol.Hawaii.gov) is being updated almost daily with information you will find useful for the remainder of 2014 and the start of 2015. If you or someone you know is interested in working at the Capitol for the 2015 legislative session, the website provides information that will guide you through the process of applying for legislative session staff positions in the House and in the Senate. The work is exciting and fulfilling because you see first-hand and contribute to the lawmaking process. Many current legislators began their journey to elected office by working as legislative session staff.

Please feel free to contact me if you have questions or concerns about happenings in our community. Call me at (808) 586-9490, email RepMatsumoto@Capitol.Hawaii.gov, or visit RepMatsumoto.com.

The Best on Earth:
A Veteran's Day Tribute

If someone has done military service,
They earn the title "veteran" and more;
They earn our deep respect and admiration;
That they are special no one can ignore.

They sacrifice their comforts we enjoy;
The list is long of all the things they gave.
Our veteran's are extraordinary people;
They're loyal, dedicated, true and brave.

When terror and invasion were real threats,
They showed us they could handle any storm
We owe our freedoms and our very lives
To our veterans, who served in uniform.

Our veterans should be celebrities;
They're exceptional; no other group compares.
We're grateful for the many things they've done;
They're always in our hearts and in our prayers.

We owe our veterans support and friendship;
Let no one ever question what they're worth.
These men and women served us and our country,
Our veterans—the very best on earth.

Surfing Injuries

Surfing season has begun. As with other sports, injuries occur, such as lacerations, bruises, sprains, fractures, overuse, eardrum punctures and concussions. I'd like to focus on two injuries: shoulder impingement and concussions.

What is shoulder impingement? It is usually a result of overuse. In surfing, the most likely culprit is paddling. Paddling consists of a repetitive motion of reaching forward and pulling back. "Overuse" can cause inflammation, which causes swelling. This swelling puts pressure on the nerves in the shoulder causing pain. Pain occurs with paddling and any overhead activity such as raising your arms to reach for something above your head. The treatment is icing the area (ice is anti-inflammatory) and avoiding activity that triggers the pain. Ibuprofen 800 mg (4 over the counter pills) or 2 Aleve are also anti-inflammatory. It is also helpful to consult an athletic trainer or physical therapist for recommendations to strengthen the rotator cuff. Doing this stabilizes the shoulder area and may prevent future impingement.

We've been hearing a lot about concussions and football. This also occurs in surfing. Surfboards get tossed into the air and can come crashing down on your head. The force on the head can cause a concussion. To review—the symptoms of concussion are loss of consciousness, headache, dizziness, nausea, vomiting, double vision, ringing in your ears, fuzzy thinking, disruption to sleep and impaired performance. If you have any of these symptoms, go to the emergency room. CT of your head is essential to rule out injury to the brain. There is a possibility of a delayed bleed around the brain, which can be fatal! If you've had a concussion, avoid any physical exertion for at least 2 weeks after all symptoms have resolved.

How do you avoid head injuries? Choose where you surf carefully. Surfing over a shallow reef or in a heavy shore dump will greatly increase your chance for head trauma.

BANZAI NORTH SHORE WIRELESS

Sunset Beach surfer Mahina Maeda, 16, is the Junior World Champion. Maeda continued her high scoring heats beating out 32 of the best jr. women surfers to take the title in Portugal last month. She now has the most coveted Junior World Title in the World, the Association of Surfing Professionals, ASP title. She has won before in the ISA but this one is sweeter and should garner her the main sponsor that she needs to go on the WQS tour and later make the WCT's top draw. Another miracle child from the seven miles! In the Junior mens Kaito Kino is the highest placing Hawaiian surfer in the North American ratings which includes Hawaii. Kino goes to Kalani High School.

The 30th Annual Quiksilver in memory of Eddie Aikau invitees were announced. "The Eddie" as we all know it is a one-day big wave riding event that only takes place if and when waves meet a 20-foot minimum height, during the holding period of December 1 through February 28. The official Opening Ceremony with the Aikau Family will be held on Thursday, December 4th, 3 p.m., at Waimea Bay. This event is an incredible experience when it goes. It has only been run 8 times in it's 30 year history when wave heights exceed the 20 foot mark the point where world famous surfer and lifeguard Eddie Aikau liked to surf. The event was last held on December 9th, 2009 and was won by Greg Long from California.

For more information and complete list go to www.quiksilver.com/eddie

Coco Ho ran away with a final win in Florianopolis Brazil at the Oceano Santa Catarina Pro scoring a 16.33 to Australian Keely Andrew's 9.03. Coco has been very successful in QS events in South America, the winningest surfer there ever. This win insures her a seat in the prestigious ASP world Tour elite 24. "The Final was really fun, it was all about who got the best waves. I was pretty stoked that I got that 9.00 at the beginning and it kind of set the pace. It felt really good and I got it without having priority. I just saw the little wall and I knew I had to go." pipeline champ, Tatiana Weston Webb and Alessa Quizon made quarter finals and have a top ten rating. Tatiana is trying to qualify and Aleesa Quizon needs a good finish in the last WCT event in Maui to continue on her World Title campaign. Below are the 2014 ASP WOMEN'S QUALIFICATION SERIES RANKING after 13 events. There is one more, the Maui & Sons Pichilemu Woman's Pro in Chile.

1st: Silvana Lima (BRA) – 12,200 points

2nd: Coco Ho (HAW) – 10,700

3rd: Sage Erickson (USA) – 9,870

4th: Nikki Van Dijk (AUS) – 9,305

5th: Laura Enever (AUS) – 9,280 (currently qualified via WCT rankings)

6th: Tatiana Weston-Webb (HAW) – 8,564

Famous Hawaii surfer Duane DeSoto has been invited to play Duke Kahanamoku at "Duke's Day" in Australia in January at Freshwater Beach in Sydney Australia. It is the 100 year anniversary of Duke's visit to the area. A custom made replica of the 8 foot 6 inch board that Kahanamoku made there in Sydney during his visit was taken to Hawaii and ridden by some of Hawaii's surfers and DeSoto seemed the most comfortable on it. "I am not even close to the Duke," Duane says. "It's not that I would feel I would be replacing or close to replicating what Duke did, but just trying to come close and humbly put on a good show that would make him proud. I'm extremely psyched and excited and I also think it's wonderful that Hawaii and Australia have a great bond through surfing and we will be coming together to share this great occasion." - Financial support of the Surfrider Foundation's John Kelly Awards and Mokuleia beach cleanup, with additional support from HIC.
- A major donation to young Hawaiian surfers of the Kamehameha Surf Team to help them get to Nationals again in 2015.
- The Turtle Bay Resort park and ride Surf Shuttle to minimize traffic and parking issues.
- And more than a dozen additional initiatives that are a direct investment in our local community and charitable organizations, and our North Shore way of life.

We continue to view this world famous showcase of events as an equal celebration of surfing and our local country lifestyle.

The Vans Triple Crown of Surfing and the Association of Surfing Professionals wish to sincerely thank our North Shore Community for their support and enthusiasm towards the upcoming winter season of events.

2014 VTCS Sustainability Plans

- Beach cruisers for the current Top 16. World's Top 16 surfers will be role models of bike path usage on the North Shore, ambassadors of positively impacting traffic and parking. Bikes will be offered for silent auction at North Shore Community Land Trust's annual fundraising dinner and silent auction (November 8, Mokuleia Polo Fields). Bidders buy the bikes for the athletes (and will have an opportunity to personally present them) and at the end of the Triple Crown, bikes go back to the winning bidders and remain in the local community. All profits from auction of bikes go to North Shore Community Land Trust.
- Beach cleanup (hosted by Surfrider Foundation, sponsored by HIC) at Mokuleia – December 8. 10 a.m.-11:45 a.m. Drinks and Snacks provided. Please volunteer to help us take care of the North Shore's greater "backyard." Meet at the western end of the Mokuleia airfield, across from the Glider port.
- Givebacks to local organizations this winter include: Surfrider Foundation, North Shore Community Land Trust, Maui Ola Foundation, North Shore Chamber of Commerce, Sunset Beach Elementary School, Department of Parks & Recreation, Hale'iwa Ali'i Beach Park public restroom restoration, and still more to be announced.
- Waste diversion – recycling, composting provided at all 3 events by Sustainable Coastlines. Last year the Vans Triple Crown mitigated 100% of its CO2 footprint. This year our goal is to improve our performance even further in the areas of waste diversion, sustainable catering for staff, recycling, composting and energy use.
- 6 Water refill stations around event site for athletes, staff and public to use, so bring your reusable bottles! 500 reusable bottles will be issued on site for all staff and athletes.
- Turtle Bay Resort will be running a shuttle to minimize traffic and parking impacts to and from all 3 events, multiple times a day. Park and ride from Turtle Bay. Not limited to guests of the hotel. Nominal fee to ride.
- North Shore's own Thomas Naylor will be providing organic local catering across all three events.
- Free webcast and free live event entry to surfing fans continues.
- Paperless registration for media and official attendees onsite (using Samsung Galaxy tablets).
- Announcers/webcast/public education on the North Shore and importance of sustainability via public announcements.
- Biodiesel generators
- Carbon offset program - run by Sustainable Surf. They are overseeing our on-site sustainability efforts at all 3 events.
- Live broadcast on Oceanic Time Warner Cable in Hawaii reduces in-person attendance/traffic.
- Outline of sustainability in Official Program (November issue of FreeSurf - being delivered to North Shore residences soon!)

- VTCS continues to partner with Turtle Bay Resort, who earlier this year put the majority of their land into conservation in perpetuity, and completed the largest hotel solar roof installation and green roof installation in the state.
- Repurposing of event site banners from last year by REEF into totes.
- Vans Celebrity Golf tournament for charity. Beneficiary TBD. Annual event takes place on December 7 at Turtle Bay Resort.

Here Comes the Vans Triple Crown of Surfing

An Interview with Marty Thomas

By Tom Jacobs

The North Shore News (NSN) recently interviewed Marty Thomas, who has taken much of the responsibility for running the North Shore's Triple Crown of Surfing from the iconic surf legend Randy Rarick. Randy has retired as Executive Director of Van's Triple Crown.

NSN: Will you tell us a bit about yourself?

Marty: Sure. I spent my surfing boyhood in Seal Beach, Southern California. In 1980, when I was twelve, my mom and I made our first trip to the North Shore so that I could compete in the Menehune Division of the U. S. World Surfing Championships. To my surprise and delight, I placed second! Two years later my mom and I moved to the North Shore permanently, so that I could pursue a career as a surfer. I surfed the pro circuit from 1985 until 1997, when I moved back to the mainland to work for a variety of surf companies in sales and marketing. In 2008 I returned to the North Shore to work for Randy Rarick in the Van's Triple Crown organization. My wife, Shalom, a North Shore girl, and our two daughters, Emma and Malia, live with me in Pupukea.

NSN: Did Randy recruit you or did you apply to him for a job?

Marty: It was a little bit of both. I had always considered Randy a mentor, and we kept in touch during my surfing tour days and afterwards. When I indicated a yearning to return to the islands Randy asked, "Why don't you come out and work with me?"

NSN: It must be a strange feeling, filling the shoes of a surfing icon like Randy.

Marty: Randy's shoes are impossible to fill by one person. He was to the Triple Crown organization as an administrator what Kelly Slater is to surfing as an athlete in the water, what Michael Jordan was to basketball. In fact I don't fill Randy's shoes entirely. There are at least five of us who try to do that.

NSN: How so?

Marty: When Randy got ready to retire he created an organization of five directors to run the Triple Crown. I'm the Competition Director, managing the three Triple Crown Events. Bert Ishimaru is Managing Director, Sean Wingate is Director for Sales and Marketing, Jodi Young Wilmott is Media Director, and Faith Wenzl is the Admin Director. Randy still helps out as a senior advisor.

NSN: Tell us a little bit of the history of the Triple Crown, and this year's schedule.

Marty: Sure. The whole thing got started in 1971 when Fred Hemmings, former world surfing champ and Hawaii state senator, sat down at a card table with six surf competitors and one thousand dollars in prize money to run a surf contest at the Banzai Pipeline. In 1983 Fred organized the three-event Triple Crown of Surfing, now in its thirty-second year. This year's schedule has the traditional three contests:

The Reef Hawaiian Pro at Haleiwa Alii Beach Park, Nov 12 – 23

The Vans World Cup of Surfing, Sunset Beach, Nov 24 – Dec 6

The Billabong Pipe Masters, Banzai Pipeline, Dec 8 – 20

NSN: What's your web site?

Marty: www.vanstriplecrownofsurfing.com

NSN: How is the Triple Crown organized functionally?

Marty: Good question. Vans owns the trademark for all three events of the Triple Crown. Vans licenses the trademark to ASP, the Association of Surfing Professionals, for the event. ASP funds the Triple Crown, including prize money. The ASP, by the way, has undergone and is undergoing dramatic change these days. On the first day of 2014 it became a privately owned entity, and on the first day of 2015 it will change its name to the World Surfing League.

NSN: But the surfing spectacle and thrills of the Triple Crown will remain, right?

Marty: Right. Surfing, after all, is Hawaii's gift to the world. We mean to continue with Vans Triple Crown to provide the best surfing in the world and to display it all over the world, while being careful to spotlight the beauty and special mana of the North Shore.

Vans Triple Crown of Surfing, Thirty Years Spectacular

By Betty Depolito

Surf Season, oh yeah gotta love it. There is nothing better than the mega amounts of wanna be pro surfers ripping every wave they see to the point of over exertion. It's all the best showing off to the world right here where careers are lost and found. Or do you loathe it? Well either way just sit on the beach at Rocky Point on a good day and watch history unfolding, it is quite a show. The entire pro tour paddles out. New moves, the highest flung airs ever and crazy roll stunts are on viewing tap. More than half of all the surf photos that appear anywhere are taken here during this time of year, amazing and quite entertaining. It will be a great show so enjoy the moments. The first event of the Triple Crown of Surfing, The Reef Hawaiian Pro, starts November 12 through the 23rd at Hale'iwa Ali'i Beach. The Triple Crown has a long history of Hawaiian winners but no one has won more than Sunny Garcia. Garcia is a serious contender winning six titles over the years and three consecutive titles, an unreal accomplishment. Garcia has yet to win the Pipeline Masters but is confident, he plays to win every event he competes in. He is good at hustling the young guns into submission, he knows how to play the winning game. It could be his year, again! Garcia won the Triple Crown title in 1992, 93, 94, 1999, 2000, 2004, the titan of the North Shore has a chance of a lifetime and the determination of a young warrior! John John Florence at the tender age of 22 has won the title two times. In 2011 he became the youngest surfer to ever win the Vans Triple Crown title and is the defending champion after a combination of a semi final finish at Sunset and a second place finish at the Billabong Pipeline Masters last season.

The North Shore's Kalani David who at 17 has gained much respect on the North Shore as the next big thing said it best at the HIC Pro. "John John is the one to beat," he said. "I am bigger and smarter than last year. I got the wipe out of the Triple Crown award last time and to me that was like the kook award. My dad still teases me about it. I have stopped doing the Junior events and I am concentrating on the QS but I get nervous in the quarters so I am working on that. I really hope to make it on to the WCT in the next couple years." The magic words, make the WCT. Not an easy task for sure as there are only 32 surfers on the top. The process takes the top 22 on the year end WCT (World Championship Tour) rankings, the top ten from the ASP World Rankings and two ASP wild cards. Imagine the pressure. Hawaii has only three surfers on the WCT. Sebastian Zietz, John John Florence and Fred Patacchia. Patacchia grew up in Pupukea and rushed the rankings early and only fell off once due to an injury for just half a year. When asked about his favorite thing about the tour he says, "the best part is competing at such a high level, some guys are free surfers or big wave surfers and I love the passion of competition part of it."

Patacchia tries to keep up with the Hawaiians that are on the QS tour. "I try my best to see the young talent and make myself available to them. Sometimes the smallest things help, like where to stay, where to fly in, yeah not get food poisoning." Patacchia is a family man willing to mentor Hawaii's young hopefuls. He is a busy dad and has just had another baby, a boy, Lincoln.

Tahiti's Michel Bourez is the defending champion for the first event of the Vans Triple Crown of Surfing at Hale'iwa. It is happening November 12-23 and there will be some heavy scraping going on for points to qualify for the tour. There are only two events left the Hale'iwa contest, The Reef Hawaiian Pro and The Vans World Cup of Surfing at Sunset Beach. Our local surfers are keen to get those titles back in our hands. Especially Hale'iwa as that beach is a place of local pride where menehune champions grow up to be pro surfers. We should all remember when Oahu's Joel Centeio charged heat after heat in big surf to finally be lifted up by fellow Hawaii surfers to the podium for the win. It is contagious, it is what we want to see, the guy you did not bet on make the final and get that trophy. Centeio is a hero, he lit up that place, everybody was screaming for him. It is etched into our memory banks. Centeio, 31, has not lost his competitive spirit since the 2009 win. He remembers his best showing as being the Pipeline Masters where he took a third in 2003. He has also won the Xcel pro at Sunset, a turning point for his career he said and continues to place well in Hawaiian events. He is a winner and with a little luck he could do it again. Centeio transitioned on to represent Hurley as sort of a team manager and do some sports marketing. He too has a family and does not travel to get those points any more but stays keen. He grew up in Makakilo then moved to Hale'iwa and now has a family to think about. "I think I would be a carpenter," he said, if not pro surfer. "I like working with my hands and I have done a few things around my house." As any good family man would say, "Stay in school would be my advice to the young kids." Good advice from a Dad! We say win, your vacation is waiting!

Looking at a photo line up of Sunset Beach makes your heart race. The memories of so many breaking waves of all heights all over a giant playing field sends the blood rushing! The thought of conquering the spot is a surfers dream. Last year Hawaiian Ezekiel Lau did just that when he won the Vans World Cup of Surfing by finding tube rides in the semi and final. There is big money and big points up for grabs as it is a prime contest with the highest points and $250,000 purse. The event is November 24th through December 6th. Lau is rated around 90th going into the events, for him winning is all that matters. Hawaii does have two surfers that sit in good spots to go on and represent Hawaii on the top of 2015 World Surf League, the name has changed. Keanu Asing is sitting at 9th right now and unless he totally crumbles he should be good. Also the North Shore's Torrey Meister is at 38th place, so close to getting a spot and or at least a great seed! Meister was born on the Big Island and moved here at a super young age so he is no stranger to the seven mile miracle of waves. Meister won the O'Neill Cold Water Classic last year in Santa Cruz California, a life changing moment. The event win came with a big check and a job with the company as a team rider. He explained it as a "grinding" experience. The money allowed him to pay off some credit cards and concentrate on better contest results and it paid off for him. There are many variables at play for his points and to qualify but keep your eyes peeled, we may have another North Shore surfer on the podium and on the WCT tour next season.

Just go to Pipeline for the contest, do not watch it on cable or on your computer unless your miles and miles away. The Billabong Pipe Masters is crazy good, no matter what. It carries a half million dollar purse, $100,000.00 to the winner. The World Championship Title will be decided there and snap, Kelly Slater has a broken toe or two heading into the event. He should be feeling pretty good but for his opponents any little help they can get is a good thing. Slater is the Master. He has won the event 7 times, torquing and twisting his body into every groove of the waves he selects. He will be challenged. There is a $100,000 Pipe trials this year for 34 of the top seeds coming out of qualifying contest. There is also, snap, a Womens invitational event. The selected wahine will have two heats and a final durning the Masters and a $10,000.00 purse. Of course Women have been having contests at Pipeline for many years now but it is only the second time the ASP has included the heats and it will probably be just rated surfers. No word yet on who is in.

The show down for the Wahine will be in Maui. The Women's Target Maui Pro was two years in the making thanks to our own Carissa Moore chatting it up to her sponsor. There will be a bit of a cross over, the event is November 24 through December 6th. It will be an all Australian showdown between five time World Champion Stephanie Gilmore, Tyler Wright and Sally Fitzgibbons for the World Title. Sally's is keen, her last name spells out her guts to glory attitude, "fit" she is. She won the ASP Fiji Womens' Pro in big impressive tubing surf. Gilmore has just been cranking her top turn tail slides all over the world stacking up points and gaining her three wins this season. Tyler is all over it. Her aggressive style has garnered her two wins and a chance to put that big World Title Trophy in the family house! None the less Honolua Bay is one of the best waves in the World when it breaks. It has a spectacular view from the cliff with powerfull right handers moving around the corner. It will be a show to behold. So many things at steak for so many surfers in so many events. The Vans Triple Crown of Surfing is thirty years young this year and it is sure to shake things up as usual in may respects and for many people. Careers made and lost, unknowns becoming legends, consequences of nature unfolding where surfing was born. Spectacular! Congratulations to all!

Windsurfing, remember that? There is a big windsurfing tour that happens around the world. The sport died off here in the islands a bit but Maui still is the place to be if you are a pro wind surfer. The Starboard Severne PWA Aloha Classic is going on at Hookipa. The famous, usually windy surf break is the spot where the best meet to claim their world titles. It is a done deal in the Womens division Iballa Moreno (Starboard, maui Ultra Fins) is the official 2014 PWA Wave World Champion. It was another epic battle with her sister Daida taking second place. Both are from Spain but you may have heard of them through other sports as they are accomplished in many including surfing and SUP surfing. The men have not completed their bouts!

Hale'iwa Film Producer Presents Fort Bliss To The Big Screen

Hale'iwa resident and film producer, John Sullivan is elated to present Fort Bliss to the islands for one week. John will be doing a Q and A after the Friday, November 14th and Saturday, November 15th, 7:00 p.m. show. Fort Bliss will be showing at the Consolidated Pearlridge West Theater, 98-1005 Moanalua Road, Aiea, Hawaii 96701. Showtimes: 11:30 a.m. 2:00 p.m. 4:30 p.m. 7:00 p.m. 10:00 p.m. Showtime info: 808-483-5339

Fort Bliss Synopsis: A female Army medic and single mom returns from an extended tour in Afghanistan to find she must now rebuild her relationship with her 5 year old son. When news of another deployment threatens the fragile balance she has achieved, she must find a way to reconcile her responsibilities as a mother and her obligations as a soldier. Note- this film is unrated and contains adult themes. Here is our trailer: <http://trailers.apple.com/trailers/independent/fortbliss/>

Fort Bliss is indeed gaining traction-not just in D.C. as The Washington Post's Critic's Pick or as a Saturday night film choice for the Secretary of Defense Hagel and his wife, there is also now legitimate Oscar nomination buzz for Michelle Monaghan's performance as combat medic Sergeant Maggie Swann.
