Hale'iwa residents Claudia and son Kent Kravitz are shown here on a recent side-trip to Cairo, Egypt with two ancient pyramids in the background. They traveled to the Middle East to visit a relative working in Kuwait and made time for a short visit to the Cairo Museum. They packed a recent copy of the NSN to remind them of all the good times back on Oahu's beautiful North Shore. For more info on our OFF da Island photo campaign turn to page 23.

First predator proof fence in Hawaii completed at Ka`ena Point

The Department of Land and Natural Resources (DLNR) has completed construction of the first predator-proof fence in the Hawaiian Islands at the Ka'ena Point Natural Area Reserve, a wilderness area at the northwestern tip of O'ahu that DLNR manages as a natural area reserve and state park. Spanning 700 yards, and enclosing over 59 acres, it provides a safe habitat for native plant and animal life.

"Protection of the natural and cultural resources of Ka'ena Point has been an ongoing effort of DLNR. Completion of the predator-proof fence is a significant step as we continue to care for the natural resources there, in partnership with wildlife agencies such as the Hawai'i Chapter of the Wildlife Society, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service – which provided the bulk of funding through its coastal program -- and the community," said William J. Aila, DLNR Chairperson.

"We will continue to work with the Ka'ena Point Advisory Group and others on an integrated management plan and education effort to protect, preserve, and restore the native environment of Ka'ena," he said. "We appreciate the community's respecting the disassembled boulder barricade while the fence was under construction. The protective barricade has since been rebuilt in place."

"The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is excited to have provided funding for this unique project which seeks to restore and maintain the environmental in-

Laie, HI - The Polynesian Cultural Center's (PCC) 19th Annual World Fireknife Championships will be held over the course of four days this year, from May 11 to 14. The world's most talented fireknife dancers will come together at the PCC to amaze the audience and once again turn up the heat as they battle to see who will be crowned this year's World Fireknife Champion. Dancers of all ages will tempt fate as they try to avoid the dangerous fireknives in a competition of skill and bravery. Acrobatic moves, death-defying stunts, rhythmic dancing and fireknives combine to make this a must see event.

Councilman Ernie Martin Serving You in District 2

Intense budget deliberations continue at City Hall. Of particular interest to residents of the North Shore is the amount of money being allotted for capital improvement construction projects. Bill 14 relates to the Mayor's Capital Budget and Program for Fiscal Year 2012. The Council is now in the process of amending the Mayor's original proposal to ensure that the allocations reflect the priorities of the City Council as well. As I reported earlier, there are many incomplete projects in District 2 that have been pending for years and these projects are my first priority for funding in 2012. One such project is the Banzai Skate Park. Nearly $66,000 was appropriated in 2010 for landscaping and erosion control. Working closely with Parks Director Gary Cabato to get the ball rolling, I am pleased to report that the work finally began on April 6th and is scheduled to be completed in July. The next phase will include the installation of skate street bowl elements, a parking lot and permanent landscaping improvements. Although no construction funds were allocated for 2011, bid documents will be completed this summer and will be sent out once construction funds are available. I have included the estimated $1.3 million in construction funds in the 2012 budget now under consideration. Although compromises often happen in budget deliberations, I will do everything I can to ensure that the entire amount is included in the final budget approved by the Council. In an extraordinary show of support for the project, the Sunset Beach Community Association has established a special fund to support the completion of the project. The first deposit was a $100 contribution made on March

Long time Banzai Skate Board Park advocate Rex Dubiel presents the first $100 to the Sunset Beach Community Association Skate Board Park Fund to President Jeanne Martinson(center) and Councilman Ernie Martin.

30th by Rex Dubiel, a Sunset Beach resident who has been an advocate of the skateboard park for many years. Other donations are sure to be forthcoming. This will serve as a strong indication to the Department of Parks and Recreation that the community is serious about helping to complete this project in a way that will maximize the use and enjoyment of the park by skaters of all ages. It will be an important recreational facility for the entire community. Many area residents like Rex Dubiel have been waiting for years to see this park completed. It is high time that community expectations are fulfilled. In addition to the construction funds allocated by the City, contributions to the SBCA will be used for enhancements such as ramps for younger children, bleachers for parents and spectators, water fountains and other amenities not currently included in the construction budget. I commend Rex Dubiel and the members of the SCBA on their ground breaking initiative. It is an excellent example of a public/private partnership that can make a tremendous difference in our community. If you would like to be a part of this innovative community based effort, contact the SBCA or e-mail me at emartin@honolulu.gov. Mahalo.

Direct From Donovan

State Senator

Donovan Dela Cruz

As we enter the final days of our legislative session, I am pleased to report that two bills which I introduced have been adopted and sent to the governor for signature. These bills are:

SB 698: Relating to Roadway Materials. With this bill, road construction and improvement are no longer mandated to use a minimum of ten percent crushed glass in all basecourse and subbase material. This material, known as Glassphalt, was originally developed as an alternative to landfill disposal of waste glass. However, with the advent of the HI-5 program in 2005 and the success of the recycling effort, more uses for recycled glass are now available.

When this bill is implemented, we will no longer need to pay someone to dispose of unrecyclable asphalt. Reclaimed asphalt pavement (RAP) remains whenever roads are resurfaced or repaved. Unfortunately, due to existing law, RAP that contain even scarce amounts of glass are not permitted to be used in surface pavements. Glassphalt apparently reduces road quality and tends to be skid resistant.

This bill will allow the sale of RAP back to paving companies since glass is no longer required to be used in the paving material. Therefore, rather than paying companies to dispose of Glassphalt, the state and county will now be able to derive revenue from it.

SB 1559: Relating to Important Agricultural Lands (IAL). Important agricultural lands are lands so designated because they are held, owned or used by agribusiness, except if they are in a conservation district.

This bill establishes incentives for IALs. It requires priority processing of permit applications and renewals for agricultural processing facilities that process agribusiness crops or livestock produced on land designated as IAL.

It also requires the Public Utilities Commission to establish preferential rates for the purchase of energy for agricultural activities on IALs.

Since most of the agricultural land is in Central Oahu and the North Shore, I would like to see these lands remain in agriculture in perpetuity by designating them Important Agricultural Lands. Therefore, the Intent of this bill is to provide incentives for landowners to preserve and maintain IALs.

tegrity of Ka'ena Point," said Loyal Mehrhoff, field supervisor of the Pacific Islands Fish and Wildlife Office. "The project will protect 11 known endangered plant species, ground nesting native seabirds and the endangered Hawaiian monk seal, and serve as a model for future conservation efforts throughout the Pacific."

The fence will keep out predators such as cats, dogs, mongooses, rats and mice as young as two days old from the Reserve so that native wildlife like the Laysan albatross and endangered native coastal plants can flourish. As the recent tsunami caused the loss of more than 112,000 Laysan albatrosses in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands, there is a high need for elevated areas like Ka'ena Point to provide safe nesting habitat, especially as sea level is expected to rise due to climate change.

The protected area is close to being free of predators through intensive baiting and trapping efforts since fence construction began. Scientific monitoring is being undertaken to track the results of the fence over time. Methods are in place to detect if pests have re-entered the Reserve so that personnel may implement a rapid response.

As part of the predator proof fence, unlocked double-door gates have been installed at major entry-ways to allow the public to have continued use of the reserve seven days a week for hiking, bird-watching, fishing, cultural practices, and volunteer work. While an overwhelming majority of people who have been to Ka'ena Point have been in strong support of the project, modifications to the design have been made to address concerns, including the installation of a third walk-through gate mid-way between the Wai'anae and Mokule'ia entrances.

With the completion of the fence, recovery of native plant and animal habitat is expected in a few years. There are currently 65 nesting pairs of Laysan albatrosses including 35 chicks. That number is expected to double in next five years as young chicks return to breed and it is hoped that more native bird species will use Ka'ena Point as a nesting area, including the Black-footed albatross which has been seen recently in the area.

Volunteers interested in helping at Ka'ena Point are encouraged to contact the Friends of Ka'ena at info@friendsofkaena.org. For more information on the project, go to www.restorekaena.org.

Facts about the Ka'ena Point predator proof fence:

The first of its kind in Hawai'i and the United States, the fence was built by a New Zealand and local crew of approximately seven people. Construction began last November and was completed this March. The New Zealand-based technology has proven to be effective in both mountain and coastal environments, similar to Hawai'i, and able to keep predators as small as two-day-old mice from entering

Dozens of dead albatross killed by dogs.

The Ka'ena Point predator-proof fence is 640 meters long (2100 feet or 700 yards) and 6.5 feet (2 meter) tall fence follows the existing upper roadbed to minimize disturbance and enclose the tip of the peninsula, a total of 59 acres, or less than 1/10 of a square mile. Three unlocked double-door gates were installed at each entrance to the reserve (from Môkûle'ia and from Wai'anae) and mid-way between the other two, to allow access by people. The fence material includes marine grade stainless steel for strength and corrosion resistance, and a rolled hood to prevent animals from climbing over. The fence is painted a dark green to blend in with the natural environment when seen from a distance.

After the fence was constructed, project personnel began to remove predatory animals from the reserve by using traps for larger animals and a combination of bait boxes and traps for rodents. These methods were selected after a one-year study of rodent abundance and behavior.

Scientists will continue to monitor native plants, seabirds and invertebrates after predator removal to evaluate the effectiveness of the fence. Methods will be in place to detect if pests have re-entered the reserve so that personnel may implement a rapid response.

How the fence works:

The Excluder predator-proof fence is four-tenths of a mile long, in the Ka'ena Point Natural Area Reserve. It is part of an integrated management plan and education effort to protect, preserve, and restore the native environment of Ka'ena. The Ka'ena wilderness area at the northwestern tip of O'ahu is managed by DLNR as a natural area reserve and state park.

The 6.5 foot high fence is designed to keep out predators like cats, dogs, mongooses, rats and mice from the reserve so that native seabird species that nest in the reserve, like the Laysan albatross, and endangered native coastal plants can flourish again in a safe environment.

How to use and care for the gates: The fence has three entrances which are unlocked at all times. Each entrance consists of a double-gated entry. Persons entering or exiting the reserve can open one gate and once it closes, are then able to open the other gate to enter. Only one gate can be opened at a time, so as to prevent entry of animals that need to be kept out of the natural area reserve. If the doors are not sliding easily, check the bottom of the door to ensure that a rock is not caught under it, or that the other door is closed

Why is a fence needed? For decades, despite trapping efforts, predators were a continual problem in the reserve. In fall 2006, dogs killed 21 shearwater chicks in a single night at Ka'ena Point. In 2007, more than 125 native seabirds were killed in one evening, most likely by one or more dogs. Rats are known to kill and eat nestling chicks, which are too young to fly away. Rats and mice also eat seeds of native plants, preventing the growth and spread of new plants.

Before construction of the fence, a community consultation process took place over three years to educate the public about problems with predators in the reserve and the need for a fence. This process built a strong foundation of community support from groups such as the Friends of Ka'ena, as well as west side and north shore neighborhood boards and other community groups. Public education and support and cooperation with proper use of the fence will continue to be essential to the success of this effort to protect native wildlife at Ka'ena Point.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service provided funding for the unique project to restore and maintain the environmental integrity of Ka'ena Point and protect 11 known endangered plant species, ground nesting native seabirds and the endangered Hawaiian monk.

Endangered plants known to exist at Ka'ena (http://restorekaena.org/treasures-native_plants. html)

- Achyranthes splendens var. rotundata (no known Hawaiian name)
- 'Awiwi (Centaurium sebaeodes)
- 'Akoko (Chamaesyce celastroides var. kaenana)
- Pu'uka'a (Cyperus trachysanthos)
- Ma'o hau hele (Hibiscus brackenridgei)
- Kulu'i (Nototrichim humile)
- Carter's panicgrass (Panicum faurier var. carteri)
- Dwarf naupaka (Scaevola coriacea)
- Schiedea kealiae (no known Hawaiian name)
- 'Ohai (Sesbania tomentosa)
- Vigna o-wahuensis (no known Hawaiian name)

For more information on the project, go to the website: www.restorekaena.org.

Book Sale

is welcome to participate.

The Friends of the Waialua Library will be holding their monthly used book sale on Saturday, May 21 from 9 to 2. Books are priced from 25 cents to one dollar. We also have some special books that are priced from two to ten dollars. Mahalo to all who have donated books.

Whitworth University Symphony Orchestra

Waialua United Church of Christ is privileged to have the Whitworth University Symphony Orchestra perform at its Weinberg Community Center (67-174 Farrington Hwy.) on Friday, May 20 at 7 p.m. The public is invited. Call 637-5934 for further information.

Bake Sale is BACK! @ Waialua Library

Saturday, June 18 is the date for our sixth annual bake sale. This popular event held in combination with the monthly book sale, has been very profitable for Waialua Library, thanks to the generosity of so many donors of baked goods, chutney, jams, jellies, pickles, and more. We will again have our "Starbooks" cooffee shop, where buyers can relax with Waialua coffee, lemonade, cookies and cupcakes while visiting with friends or enjoying a good read found at the adjacent book sale. Success, of course, depends on the participation of many supporters of the library, so if you would like to help by donating or by working at the sale, sign-up sheets will be in the library during the month of May, or you can call Petie McManus at 637-7446. Mark your calendars, spread the word, assemble your favorite recipes, and get ready for another great bake sale!

Writer's Workshop May 14, Saturday 11 a.m.

We are pleased to announce a new activity on the part of Waialua Library. This is a group where aspiring and already practicing writers can meet and discuss their work and receive advice and encouragement. The group meets every second Sat. of the month at 11 a.m., with local author and former UH professor Derek Bickerton as facilitator. Anyone interested in writing is welcome. The first meeting was held on March 12

Native Hawaiian Forest Restoration Service Project in Laie set for Mid-May

Volunteers will spend Saturday, May 24, restoring the Ko'olau mountains above Laie to native forest. The forest restoration is planned by Envision Laie and groups in the Ko'olauloa area. Volunteers will meet at Laie Park at 8 a.m., hike up the Laie mountains and work until mid-afternoon. They will spend the day removing invasive species, helping restore endangered plants unique to Hawaii, and planting Hawaiian koa and sandalwood.

Community groups and individual residents are invited to join the project. Some of the supplies and logistical support will be dropped off by helicopter the day before with help from project supporters KMWP and the U.S. Army. Interested parties should contact David Bybee at 675-3804 about the May 14 service project. Additional service days can be arranged if enough interest is cultivated.

Approximate hiking time is 2 hours up (1,500 ft. elevation) and 1.5 hours down with 2-3 hours work time at the burn site. Volunteers must be in excellent helath, wear good hiking shoes and bring their own lunch and drinking water. The hike is challenging and volunteers will be asked to sign a release.

Envision Laie represents a diverse group of residents and stakeholders of Laie and Ko'olauloa who are working together to study Laie and plan for its future possibilities, a future that protects quality of life and emphasizes the values of the people who live in the Ko'olauloa region.
