

Governor spoils Hale'iwa Farmers Market future

Hale'iwa Farmers' Market operators were shocked to receive a call from the media recently asking for a response to the press release sent by the Governor's office shutting down the current site and the erection of "No Trespassing" signs on the property. Attorneys for HFM have been waiting since Wednesday for a reply from the Attorney General's office regarding the continued extensions to allow the parties reasonable time munity as a whole. "I cannot beto find a new location. Having informed the State that vendors need reasonable notice to stay economically viable, HFM expected a further extension from the State because the State requested until Friday to have an opportunity to respond. The abrupt termination of further negotiations to seek a suitable new site was unexpected and a blow to the Hale'iwa comlieve this is happening at 1:30 on Friday afternoon, when all our vendors have already picked and prepared their products for the Sunday market. The Governor assured us that we would not miss a market day, so this change of events is a big surprise to us." says market manager Pamela Boyar.

Kawailoa Wind A New Wind Energy Project on O'abu's North Shore

Since 2006, landowner Kamehameha Schools consulted with many North Shore residents and business owners about ways to use their mauka lands to generate renewable energy, while also continuing to promote and expand local food production. With area kupuna to guide the process, they hosted a number of small group meetings, large community meetings, youth forums, mail survey, and a website, which showed that residents strongly support the idea of a wind farm in the area that would be a clean, local source of energy while maintaining and supporting North Shore agricultural production. That vision will become reality as energy company First Wind begins constructing wind turbines in the hills of Kawailoa that will turn Hawai'i's trade winds into clean, renewable electricity for island residents.

What is Kawailoa Wind?

Called Kawailoa Wind, the project includes 30 state-of-the-art wind turbines that will be installed on land owned by Kamehameha Schools, about 1 to 3 miles mauka of Kamehameha Highway between Waimea Bay and Hale'iwa town. The project is scheduled to be completed by the end of 2012. Once operating, Kawailoa Wind will create enough clean energy to power the equivalent of 14,500 O'ahu homes.

Caring for the Environment & Native Wildlife

In caring for native wildlife, the project will have a Habitat Conservation Plan which ensures a "net benefit" results for native wildlife which may be impacted by the project. As part of this plan, First Wind will work with Kamehameha Schools to restore and protect 'Uko'a Pond in Hale'iwa, improving it as a habitat for native bird and bat species.

Promoting Local Food Production Lease revenues from Kawailoa Wind will provide Kamehameha Schools with income to improve and expand the century old irrigation system in the area, thereby increasing water availability and distribution for local farmers and ranchers. With a permanent project footprint of about 22 acres, thousands of acres surrounding the site will continue to be utilized for agriculture and cattle grazing.

Creating Local, Clean Energy

As with all First Wind projects, Kawailoa Wind seeks to be a long-term, contributing member of the North Shore community. First Wind and Kamehameha Schools look forward to working with area schools so that the project can become an educational tool for students to learn about renewable energy.

Olakino Maikaʻi (Good Health) by Naty Camit Hopewell Hepatitis C

There are vaccines to prevent Hepatitis A and B, but not for Hepatitis C. About 130-170 million are living with chronic Hep C. In the U.S., about 35,000 to 185,000 or 2% of the population are diagnosed each year. Rates in the Western world since the 1990s have declined due to improved screening for Hep C in blood donors. Annual deaths in the U.S. range from 8-10,000.

Hep C is a blood borne infectious disease affecting the liver. About 15% of those infected clear the virus, but the other 85% develop a chronic condition causing scarring of the liver and, eventually, cirrhosis. Some progress to liver failure or liver cancer. This progression may not be evident for decades.

The most common method of transmission in developed countries is IV drug use, due to contaminated needles. In developing countries, the main causes are blood transfusions and unsterilized medical equipment. Body piercings, mainly tattoos, performed before the mid-1980s, are a common cause due to lack of sterile techniques. Shared personal care items, such as razors, toothbrushes and manicuring/ pedicuring equipment, can pose a risk because they could be contaminated with blood. Hep C is not spread through casual contact such as hugging, kissing, or sharing eating utensils. Transmission through sexual contact is unlikely in monogamous hetereosexuals. However, there is increased risk with penetration through the anus due to tissue tearing and blood exposure.

A simple blood test is the first step in diagnosing Hep C. Anyone involved in any of the above situations should be tested. If you have been told that your liver enzyme is elevated, you should be tested. People who test positively are usually referred to the liver center. The person is evaluated to see whether or not he or she is a good candidate for treatment since not everyone responds to treatment. for a new market location, including the Waialua Courthouse, Liliuokalani Church and Waimea Valley. Each comes with unique obstacles. The Waialua Courthouse is a tiny parcel that requires Shoreline Management permitting, would require vendors to offload their vehicles from the Kamehameha Highway and drive off-site to park, has limited space only for 20 of the 60+ vendors and no parking for shoppers. Representatives for the congregation of Liliuokalani Church stated that the congregation would reject any commercial activity on the church grounds on Sunday mornings. While the Office of Hawaiian Affairs has been extremely gracious and helpful in their invitation to HFM for relocation to Waimea Valley, the 20+ acre parcel of Conservation and Shoreline Management land creates a difficult puzzle to put together. This option requires significant time and money, and possibly the engineering and erection of a footbridge. Though conversations have begun, the State knows well how long permitting takes. Neither City-owned parks land nor agriculturally-zoned lands are an option, as you cannot sell produce in these areas. Additionally, early in this process, Lorna Nono of Castle and Cooke reached out to see if the Waialua Sugar Mill was an acceptable location. Annie Suite says, "We were very grateful for the offer, but as we explained to Lorna, when we opened three years ago, we made a very specific decision regarding our HFM and the surrounding farmers' markets, in that we did not want to create any situation which would negatively impact other farmers' markets in the region. Moving to the Sugar Mill location would squash this vital market for the Hale'iwa area. Although there is a significant amount of non-local produce there, we cannot do anything to hurt the few real farmers who participate."

Earlier this week, HFM operators and attorneys met with Kalani Fronda, Senior Land Asset Manager of Kamehameha Schools regarding additional potential sites. Says Pamela Boyar, "Kamehameha Schools agricultural land and OHA's Waimea Valley site are being carefully vetted and we feel certain that one will be our new home. We hope that can happen quickly, but as we all know, things can sometimes move slower than we desire."

For two months, Hale'iwa Farmers' Market has requested multiple meetings with Governor Abercrombie to provide community input and accurate information regarding the operation, but to date there has been no offer to meet or the courtesy of a return phone call.

"We are stunned. Absolutely stunned. In this time of economic upheaval, it is difficult to believe that a simple roadblock cannot be erected to overcome this legality and allow 60 legal small businesses to continue to flourish until a permanent location is found. We have been operating legally on this property for three years. We have offered to pay the State since day one. We have had no issues with safety. Our insurance policy (as well as those of our vendors) is extensive. We do not see the problem in staying here until we get settled in our new home," says Suite. Boyar adds, "Where is the future of sustainable agriculture? These past weeks have seen the loss the prime Agricultural lands including Koa Ridge and Ho'opili, the failure to pass the Sustainability Bill, the closing of Hanalei Market... and now this? When are we going to stop talking about Local Food for Local Consumption, and take some action to preserve it?"

Popular Local Artists to Perform in PCC's Newly Renovated Gateway Venue on July 6

cal group Nesian N.I.N.E., two of Hawaii's most popular local acts, will perform live at the Polynesian Cultural Center's (PCC) newly renovated Gateway venue on July 6.

With a delicate balance of fragility, strength and sass, singer/songwriter Anuhea blends engaging lyrics, acoustic soul, pop, rap and reggae into a style that has earned her a reputation as Hawaii's top female artist. Anuhea's signature guitar rhythms, sultry vocals and honest song writing weave acoustic soul, R&B, jazz and hip hop with pop appeal, making Anuhea Hawaii's rising star.

Nesian N.I.N.E (Natives Inna New Era) has been together since 2008 and has shared the stage with some of the biggest names in the music industry including Boyz II Men and Brian McKnight. Their incorporation of old school vibes blended with just the right touch of island feel allows them to do it all, from reggae, R&B and soul ballads, to old school.

"We are very excited to host Hawaii's brightest musical stars at the PCC. We look forward to welcoming their fans and all who enjoy the talent and positive vibes these artists will bring to PCC this summer," said Raymond Magalei, PCC's director of marketing. "This is just one of many concerts we have planned. Earlier this year we hosted an intimate Valentine's evening with Natalie Na Hoku Hanohano award-winner Anuhea and lo- Ai Kamauu and her special guest performer Kapena and just last month we had a mother's day dance with live music provided by Island Times 2."

The July 6 concert is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in the PCC's grandiose new Gateway special events venue. The 24,400-square-foot venue provides an ideal location for concerts and features shell torches that provide ambient lighting along with a state-of-the-art cooling system, which continually circulates the air in Gateway, enhancing the natural breeze that runs through the restaurant.

Tickets to this summer concert are $15 pre-sale and $10 for Kamaaina Annual Pass holders. To make reservations call the PCC ticket office at (800) 367-7060. On Oahu, call 293-3333. For more information visit PCCKamaaina.com

Aloha, North Shore.

Many residents have contacted my office regarding hardships caused by changes to TheBus routes and schedules. On June 3rd, the Circle Island Routes were eliminated; Routes 52 and 55 now terminate at the Wahiawa Transit Center.

Route 52 operates between Wahiawa and Ala Moana, more or less directly. Route 55 starts and ends at the same places as 52, but its route transits the North and Windward shores.

The most severe impact of these changes is the reduction of frequency from 40 minutes to hourly service. Reports are coming in that many more buses are overloaded and connections to other routes are much more limited. Instead of commute times of two hours, some riders now spend four hours getting home from Honolulu.

TheBus is asking for comments with specific facts so that they can modify and adjust the schedules. They need to know as many details as possible, including the bus route, direction, time of day, locations of where riders board and exit, where buses became crowded, and other useful observations specific to that particular incident.

Email specific observations to TheBusStop@honolulu.gov or comment on-line at TheBus.org. Look for the Customer Comment link in the lower left of the page. You can also call in comments to 768-8303.

Waialua has an All-Star Bobby Sox team that needs help getting to the mainland for its tournament next month. The 12 players and coaching staff of the Under 16 team have to raise $25,000 to pay for their airfare, seven nights accommodations, transportation, food and miscellaneous travel expenses.

The girls are working several fundraising projects; the main event will be on July 15 at the Shack in Mililani from 5 to 10 p.m. The suggested donation of $10 covers entertainment and pupu. A special drawing will be held for two round trip plane tickets to Las Vegas.

Please call Marielyn Keao at 864-7355 or email her at alei_808@yahoo.com to make your tax-deductible contribution or to find out more about the team.

The North Shore Ocean Fest was a big success. The organizers are already planning the second annual event at the Turtle Bay Resort for next June 8th, World Oceans Day. Congratulations to Dotty Kelly-Paddock and the numerous volunteers for a great event!

Primary Election Day is August 11

Democrats, Republicans and Independants can all vote for Gil in the Primary Election. Your vote matters and Gil needs your vote in this election.

Representative Gil Riviere

Representative Gil Riviere was one of the most consistent and strongest voices this year against what became known as the Dirty Dozen Anti-Environment Laws, which were nearly all defeated.

Thanks to excellent relationships with other members in the House, Gil successfully amended bills that could have devastated our district. He prevented the exemption of all land subdivisions from special management area permits and the allowance of vacation rentals on Oahu's agricultural lands.

Observers note that he delivers effective floor speeches, offers solid research and treats everyone, from staff, to governmental leaders, to the public, with courtesy and respect.

Gil repeatedly demonstrates his dedication with initiatives to preserve, protect and improve the quality of life of those he represents.

I am pleased to report that the following measures I introduced were passed by the Legislature this past session:

SB2375 – Relating to agricultural based-commercial operations. Defines agricultural-based commercial operations and authorizes agricultural/commercial operations in agricultural districts.

SB2378 – Relating to legacy lands. Allows for the acquisition of lands through the legacy conservation funds for regulatory functions of the state.

SCR84 – Expresses the State's support of the Hawai'i Public Housing Authority's application for a Choice Neighborhoods grant. If awarded, this grant will help transform distressed neighborhoods and public and assisted projects into viable and sustainable mixed-income neighborhoods by linking housing improvements with appropriate services, schools, public assets, transportation, and access to jobs.

SR38 – Urges DLNR to come up with laws that will allow hunters to access private land. The resolution asks the Attorney General's office to consult with DLNR to evaluate the feasibility of establishing laws to require written permission from the land owner in order to hunt on private lands and to discuss potential amendments to criminal trespassing laws to address hunting situations.

SR58 – Urges DLNR to expand the scope of the comprehensive information system to inventory and maintain information about the lands of the public land trust to further include public facilities, thereby creating a comprehensive asset management system for public lands and facilities. Given the dire economic situation of the State, it is important that all state agencies work together to ensure that all lands and facilities are being used to their fullest potential.

SR59 – Urges the Office of Planning to conduct and complete regional plans and studies every five years as required by statute to allow future development to benefit the needs of the State. The Office of Planning's purpose is to maintain the overall framework to guide the development of the State through a continuous process of comprehensive, long-range, and strategic planning to meet the needs of Hawai'i's people, and provide for the wise use of Hawai'i's resources

SR76 - Urges the Honolulu Authority for Rapid Transportation to determine cost-effective and revenue-generating ridership levels for the rail transit system and submit a report of its findings to the Legislature at least twenty days prior to the convening of the Regular Session of 2013.

SR101 – Requests the Agribusiness Development Corporation to acquire land for improvements to its infrastructure necessary to achieve its mission to acquire and manage, in partnership with farmers, ranchers, and aquaculture groups, selected highvalue lands, water systems, and infrastructure for commercial agricultural use and to direct research into areas that will lead to the development of new crops, markets, and lower production costs.

SR103 - Requires the Office of Planning to coordinate with all state agencies that hold title to or leases of land along the elevated rapid transit line route to develop a community development plan for communities along the route.

SR105 - Requests the Public Land Development Corporation to submit a semi-annual report to the Legislature and the board of directors of the corporation to submit an annual evaluation of the executive director of the corporation to the legislature.

Waialua - The Saga of the North Shore Chapter 12 - Pohaku Lanai

By Kalewa

Offering up the fruits and fat of Mokuleia, and Kamananui Apua`a at the Kahakahuna Heiau the following day, Puiki introduced the Mo`i to his relatives, the headmen of the neighborhood and his most promising young men. Peleiolani gave Puiki a small feather cape with a matching helmet of sturdy weave. Soon bundles of fine tapa, Ni`ihau shell lei and other commodities from around Peleiolani's domains were being spread throughout the crowd.

The procession was soon underway in a rather rushed circuit of the island. Haste was demanded by the fact that a warrior chief named Alapa`i had come from Hawai`i with the intention of plundering O`ahu, should there be no ruler strong enough to prevent it. His landings had been repulsed along the southern coast, but Alapa`i had made an unopposed landfall near Mokapu. Peleiolani's family members had arranged for a meeting to take place as soon as possible in Kaneohe. Word was that the invasion fleet was already beginning to anchor off shore while defensive troops were encamping in the lowlands.

It was most important that certain ceremonies take place at Kapukapuakea Heiau (at Kaiaka Park) later that evening. Puiki was assigned the job of recruiting all the manpower he could muster for the gathering of warriors. Each man was advised to carry a weeks worth of dried poi and whatever else he wished. Women were welcome as well.

Kapukapuakea Heiau had been freshly done up for this occasion. A team of kahuna had agreed on the protocol to assure that all proper things were done to establish beyond any question of any kind that Peleiolani was by every possible definition, the Mo`i, king , ruler, owner, consumer, and ultimate governor of O`ahu, as well as much of Kaua`i and Ni`ihau. An appropriate number of cadavers had been gathered for the sacrificial ceremonies.

Puiki was most proud to show off an engineering feat he and his men had recently accomplished. He explained that before the time of Kuali`i, about sixty years earlier, a series of great waves had cast up huge hale-sized boulders of the coral underlying the point of land there. Two large lens-shaped coral stones had been wrestled, one atop the other, balanced in such a manner that the upper resonated when properly struck. Puiki proudly announced the structure's name as "Pohaku-Lanai", as he invited the Mo`i to sit in the shade that it produced.

There were some administrative decisions to be made that evening. The boundary between Kamananui and Pa`ala`a had been in dispute for some time. That was settled and a few changes were made concerning minor chiefs ruling over certain apua`a. Some wished to change properties to be closer to kin and some were found to be unsuitable for governance. Those who's loyalty was questioned in any way were all kept in court with others overseeing their people.

Stopping the following day in Kawailoa only long enough to consume the glutinous seafood lu`au that had been laid out for the king adjacent to Ukoa Pond, the procession, now turned into an Army, rushed on around the island gathering war supplies and manpower along the way.

The summit meeting of the two great chiefs was concluded by each recognizing the other's authority as well as their mutual family ties. Alapa`i went off to war on Maui while Peleiolani stayed to rule O`ahu....but they were soon to meet again.

Sacred Falls State Park remains closed to public Enforcement officers continue to cite trespassers

The Department of Land and Natural Resources (DLNR) reminds the public that Sacred Falls State Park remains closed to the public, for public safety.

Today a juvenile male was injured in the park while trespassing with two other persons. The injured youth was rescued by the Honolulu Fire Department, assisted by Honolulu Police Department and taken to a nearby hospital. HFD in April this year also rescued an injured hiker in the park.

"Exposure to falling rock hazards remains severe at Sacred Falls, and rockfall warning and multiple "PARK CLOSED" signs are posted at the park gate as well as at locations along the trail," said William J. Aila, DLNR Chairperson. "People entering the now unmaintained park are putting themselves at risk of injury or death."

"We encourage all persons to respect the park closure, and to safely enjoy our other State Park areas or hiking trails within the Na Ala Hele Trail System of State Forest Reserves," said Dan Quinn, State Parks administrator. "Other popular waterfalls on O'ahu include Maunawili Falls, and Manoa Falls."

DLNR Division of Conservation and Resources Enforcement (DOCARE) officers also responded to today's accident and are investigating to determine what enforcement action may be taken. DOCARE officers continue to cite numerous persons who are climbing over or going around the locked fence and ignoring the park closure and warning signs.

Entry into a closed park is a petty misdemeanor offense, a violation of Hawaii Administrative Rules and subject to administrative, civil and criminal penalties, as provided by Hawaii Revised Statutes section 184-5, section 199-7 and chapter 712A.

Sacred Falls has been closed by the State for public safety reasons ever since a deadly rockslide in 1999 that claimed eight lives and injured numerous other park users.

For park or maintained hiking trail information go to www.hawaiistateparks.org and www.hawaiitrails.org respectively.
