Serving You in District 2

How time flies. When I started writing a column for the North Shore News, it barely crossed my mind that one day, I would be writing my final piece as a member of the Honolulu City Council. And now that day is here.

I'd like to first thank the voters of Council District 2 for allowing me to represent you at the City and County of Honolulu. These past eight years have been challenging and sometimes frustrating, but when the work is pau and the results bear fruit, the satisfaction of accomplishment far outweighs any disappointments.

I leave office comfortable in the knowledge that the district is a little better off than I found it, in particular:

- Initiating the funding that forever protects Kawela Bay and Kahuku Point against development;
- Preserving the land under the City's Kahuku Golf Course;
- Working closely with the community to repair roadways and streambeds in Kahaluu damaged by severe rains and flooding;
- Getting the funds for the reconstruction of the Pupukea play courts; and
- After a 20-year wait, finally securing the money to complete the Banzai Rock Skate Park.

Having served in the Executive Branch and the Legislative Branch of City government has given me a very sober, unfiltered look at public service. I am convinced, now more than ever, that it is a noble calling. The opportunity to do good for people and to do right by them are rewards that money cannot buy.

I am eternally grateful for the confidence and faith you placed in me to serve on the City Council. The unforgettable experiences and the new friends I have made on this journey will remain with me always.

What the future holds, I have yet to discover. I'm only certain that it will be something my family embraces and promises to be every bit as fulfilling as public service.

Mahalo, and aloha.

Resources for New and Small Farms

There are more farms operating in Hawaii today than there were 20 years ago, when some people prematurely declared agriculture dead. The current number of farms in Hawaii is 7000, as compared to 5500 in 1997.

Fresh, local food production is rebounding, but still far below where it can and should be. Farmer's markets make up a small percentage of local food sales, and various restaurants buy fresh local food, too; but a real game changer will come when school lunches are mostly sourced from Hawaii grown food.

The school lunch program is, effectively, the largest restaurant in the state. The potential to provide local produce, meat, poultry, milk, and fruit to our school children is huge for our local agriculture enterprises. In the last couple years, regulatory barriers and bureaucracy have been reduced to support this goal of scaling up purchases as local production increases.

More land is available for farming since the end of the plantation era, albeit the race is on to save quality lands from speculators and developers. The State of Hawaii recently purchased hundreds of acres of former Dole land in order to preserve them from development pressures and to ensure long term availability and affordability for farming.

Nobody says it is easy to survive and prosper in agriculture, but potential farmers now have planning tools and supporting expertise like never before. The University of Hawaii College of Tropical Agriculture has long been a resource for crop research and agricultural support. What is new are the business planning, hands on experiences and careful mentoring for new farmers, and organizations that help small farmers partner to meet modern regulatory hurdles.

I recently toured the Go Farm Hawaii, Waialua Station, and was impressed with how they are coaching up new farming enthusiasts. Go Farm provides increasingly intensive education to anyone interested in becoming a farmer or improving their business model. The education begins with a two-hour seminar called Ag Curious, then continues with Ag Exposure over four Saturdays to teach about the lifestyle and knowledge needed to succeed. Interested participants then graduate to Ag School, a four-month program requiring one evening and one weekend day working on the land.

Students who are still interested in farming after

Ag School then move on to Ag Pro, a six month, minimum twice weekly, program, Ag Incubator, a proof of business plan and crop production test for up to three years, and then Ag Business, an intensive, one on one consulting service to help guide the business forward as an agricultural producer. See GoFarmHawaii.org

The North Shore Economic Vitality Partnership (NSEVP), is a partnership designed to support small farmers succeed and meet the regulatory requirements of the Food Safety Modernization Act by providing programs for Good Agricultural Practices (GAP) and record keeping, building food hubs, and connecting farmers with additional markets. See NSEVP.org

Aloha Friends and Neighbors!

Mele Kalikimaka and Hau'oli Makahiki Hou! Merry Christmas to you and your loved ones! I wish you all the best for a healthy and prosperous 2019, and I am looking forward to continuing our work together to improve our community and State. Enjoy and treasure the peace and celebration of the rest holiday season with your family and friends!

Mahalo to many of you for your ideas and suggestions for legislation for the upcoming 2019 Legislative Session by responding to the survey our office sent out. Mahalo for taking time out of your day to share your thoughts with me. If you have any suggestions or concerns that are important to you, please feel free to share them with me so that we can work together for the betterment of our community! If you have not received a survey and live in District 45, please contact my office at (808) 586-9490 for assistance.

With the new year, comes new laws that passed in the Regular Session of 2018, and many laws also went into effect this earlier in the summer as well. For a full list of laws that have passed that you can view online, please visit the Hawaii Legislative Reference Bureau's (LRB) website at lrbhawaii.org or give them a call at 587-0690. You may also reach the LRB via email at lrb@capitol.hawaii.gov should you need any assistance researching the new laws.

Last year, the legislature appropriated funds to the Department of Human Services for the Coordinated Statewide Homeless Initiative. This is one of the major issues we've been working on resolving as a state. Another example of a bill that was signed into law that will take effect on January 1, 2019 is the establishment of a civil penalty for knowingly misrepresenting an animal as a service animal; this act conforms Hawaii law with the definition of "service animal" under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990.

The 2019 Legislative Session will convene on January 16, 2019, and the public is welcome to the ceremony on a first come, first served basis. Legislative offices will be open to greet you in the morning after the opening day ceremony. The Hawaii State Legislature website (Capitol.Hawaii.Gov) was recently updated for the 2019 Session - if you're looking for information from the previous Session, visit the "Archives" page. To get there, scroll to the bottom left side of the main page, then click on "Archives". You can find information dating back to the 1999 Session.

Now is also a great time to register to automatically receive information from the Hawaii State Legislature or update your preferences if you already have an account. As I mentioned in the previous issue, you can create personalized measure tracking lists, submit testimony online, and receive hearing notice notifications by email once you have an account at Capitol.Hawaii.Gov, and if you needed any assistance feel free to give my office a call!

Happy Holidays to you all! As always, please feel free to contact me if you have questions or concerns about any happenings in our community. Call me at (808) 586-9490, email RepMatsumoto@capitol.hawaii.gov, or visit RepMatsumoto.com.

The North Shore Christmas, 100 years ago

By Captain Rick Rogers

The Holiday Season of 1918 was quite a festive time on the North Shore. Our troops and Red Cross volunteers were returning from the Great War in Europe. The OR&L Railroad connected Waialua to Honolulu on a daily basis. Tourists filled the Haleiwa Hotel, where some were to be found lounging on the beach, paddling up the river, or enjoying the shooting sports mauka. A large Christmas tree had been shipped in from San Francisco on the same steamship that brought most of the visitors to the islands, a week earlier. The kitchen staff was preparing a traditional holiday feast of locally grown turkey, sweet potatoes, rice, fresh fish and recently pounded poi.

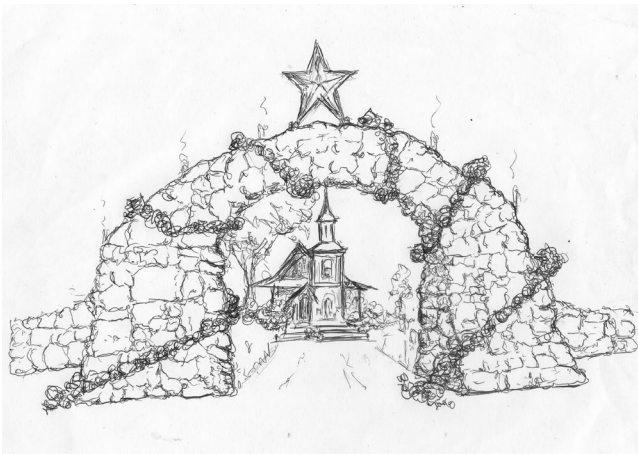

The arch fronting Liliuokalani Church was wrapped with flowers, paper ornaments and candles. The Japanese Christian Church, near the Waialua Plantation Offices was diverting parishioners from both the Waialua and Haleiwa Honganji Missions, as was the Korean Christian Church, near the recently shuttered St. Michaels Catholic Church.

The most brightly decorated home was that of Albert Andrew Wilson, Manager of Waialua Water Company. Houses occupied by the German engineers and other Europeans in Haole Camp had traditional trappings as well.

Gifts were exchanged between neighbors and neighborhoods while the Plantation sponsored a caroling contest in the park.

It was a truly wonderful Christmas, with prospects for a Very Happy New year of 1919.

LAU WINS WORLD CUP FOR SECOND TIME

Honolulu's Ezekiel Lau claimed a victory at the World Surf League, Vans World Cup, which is the last event of the QS, Qualifying Series. The finals we're held in extreme conditions topping the 12 foot range and Lau handled it well with great wave selection and calm within the storm of waves. Lau won the event in 2013 also so this is quite an accomplishment! He defeated an international field of 128 top surfers and now is in contention for a Vans Triple Crown Champion title! "This is everything," said Lau. "For me to perform at home in front of my home crowd and represent, it feels amazing. That's why I like to come and perform at home, for everyone that supports me and puts so much time into what I do. I'm glad I was able to return the favor today. In my mind I already put myself in the Final so I just kept my composure and kept my focus and I'm glad I came out with a win." The final was not the best as close out sets poured into Sunset one after the other and white washed the whole field. Lau was able to get a score early, a 7.33 out of ten. Lau beat out Brazil champion Jesse Mendes for the win but it was not even close by scores. This event was important because it was the last event that could qualify surfers to be on the elite World Tour, WCT. See the results below, the top ten qualify and Mendes was the last qualifier.

2018 Vans World Cup of Surfing Results

- 1st - Ezekiel Lau (HAW) 12.66
- 2nd - Jesse Mendes (BRA) 7.63
- 3rd - Joan Duru (FRA) 7.33
- 4th - Griffin Colapinto (USA) 4.67

- 5 - Peterson Crisanto (BRA)

SETH MONIZ QUALIFIES FOR THE ELITE WORLD TOUR

Check the list for the final placings for the WQS Qualifying Tour and you'll see Honolulu's Seth Moniz in the third spot. The Billabong team rider has easily qualified for the tour ending up in third place by points, ten surfers qualify this way. It will be great to see another Hawaiian on tour at the big events! Moniz comes from a family of great surfers, all have been successful. Josh is known for his air game and recently at the US Open at Huntington pulled an inverted air to wow the crowd. People were calling it the best air of the event. He did it in practically nothing energy and that's what it takes to be successful when your on the line. Moniz had said he did not want to qualify to early and at 22 he is ready to go in 2019. Last year he ended up around 85th or so. Watch some great video of Seth online at <https://stabmag.com/stabcinema/seth-moniz-the-chain/>.

It's going to be a great year to follow our new hottie do his thing on tour!

KK, WAS OK AT JAWS, JAWS EATS PEOPLE, SHE ATE JAWS UP.

Kauai's Keala Kennelly was victorious at the WSL Jaws Big Wave Challenge one of two big wave venues for the Wahine. Pure bravado dropping into the giant waves of consequence at Peahi was what the judges scored the highest and rightly so. Kennelly is the original big wave rider of our time having surfed giant waves in Tahiti that she is now famous for. Jaws was a challenge for the ladies from the get go. Like last year they all got caught inside right away. Jet skis were lost and turned into rubble and a few of the ladies did not recover to get waves. Jaws was clamping down and few waves were ridden through. Kennelly took off on some giant waves dropping and skidding into the abyss but not getting hurt and then doing it again with abandon. The 40 year old Kennelly did not hold back. Maui's Andrea Moller was runner up and the North Shore's Emily Erickson was so close but ended up in 3rd place. Erickson was able to find a spot and finish a few waves during the event which was keen. Afterwards the men went out and Jaws got bigger and bigger and they postponed due to dangerous surf. It was a crazy morning! A giant congrats to Keala Kennelly for the win and for pushing Women's big wave surfing once again!

Waiialua Community Association Special Community Event

Ho'ola Na Pua Informational Presentation on Sex Trafficking

Open to the Public

January 12, 2019 at 5:00 p.m.

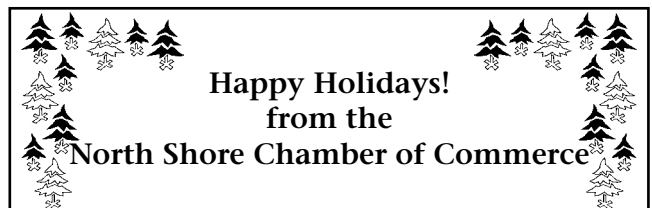

Old Haleiwa Gym, 66-434 Kamehameha Hwy. (Across from the Haleiwa Post Office)

Sex Trafficking – Not in Our Community, Right? Wrong! Sex trafficking is a growing business in Hawaii because sex traffickers respond to the demands of sex buyers and the demand keeps growing. A recent report put out by the Hawai'i State Commission on the Status of Women in September of 2018 found that in Hawaii one in eleven men over the age of 18 responded to the sex trafficking site, "Oahu Backpage.com". While it does not mean that one in eleven men are sex buyers, it is still alarming. There was one response every 24 hours with 407 contacts, more than any other city in the U.S. Hawaii has a big problem and our rural North Shore is not immune to this.

The state's location and its popularity with tourists make it the ideal trafficking corridor. One generally hears of women and children being trafficked, but it's a fact that men can also be victims of this crime. The impact to a community such as ours can be devastating to victims, family and community alike. Victims can often be society's most marginalized members and it's up to neighbors and friends to look out for one another. Citizen reporting is of great importance and shouldn't be overlooked but you need to know what to look for. For this reason, the Waiialua Community Association will be sponsoring an informational presentation on sex trafficking by the non-profit Ho'ola Na Pua. This event will be held on January 12, 2019 at the "Old Haleiwa Gym" (66-434 Kamehameha Hwy.) across from the Haleiwa Post Office.

We can beat human trafficking by using all of the means at our disposal to raise awareness about the crime, its nature, causes and damage to victims. It will take the effort of the entire community to address this growing threat of sex trafficking and victimization. Do your part. Get educated. Get involved. Take our community back.
